Testo 1) In the historic centre, different eras embrace one another harmoniously and in the immediate surroundings you will discover ancient houses made of typical architecture, traditional "cortivi" together with tiny churches containing precious works of art. Mother Nature has certainly made herself at home in Belluno.

Testo 2) – Non Estratto - The Park is situated on the southern border of the dolomitic area and it represents a sector of the southeastern Alps of noteworthy and acknowledged environmental interest, with a high level of naturality and an excellent conservation of the ecosystems. It develops at an altitude between 412 and 2,565 mt, therefore it includes a great variety of environments.

Testo 3) The territories included in the Park, today almost empty, were inhabited for thousands of years and still keep the precious evidence of the ancient human presence. It is worth mentioning the many prehistorical archaeological sites and the Valle Imperina Mining Center, which supplied the Republic of Venice with the copper necessary for the arsenal.
